Who's Preaching Today?

In Dan's absence, I am privileged and humbled to be asked by the elders to preach today. I know we all pray for Dan's quick return to the pulpit and to good health. For our worship services today I have collected some thoughts from the book of James. In the auditorium Bible class we will look at the way the book of Psalms addresses so many aspects of our lives today.

But Dan's physical absence and my substitution efforts brings an analogy to mind. When Jesus was on earth, He preached and taught everywhere He went. Obviously since He was bringing a new message, He needed to spread the good news. But He also know He would need preachers and teachers after He returned to heaven. So at various times He sent out the apostles and other disciples to preach (Mark 6, Luke 9 and 10). This not only spread the gospel, but prepared them for His physical absence.

Now that the apostles are gone (and have been for several centuries), who is filling in for them? You, me and every New Testament Christian alive today. We preach by the way we talk, the way we conduct our lives and the way we reflect Christ.

Who's preaching today? All of us.
