Famous Last Words

Charles Gussman was a famous TV announcer. As he became ill, he said he wanted his last words to be memorable. When his daughter reminded him of this, he gently removed his oxygen mask and whispered: “And now for a final word from our sponsor—.” Last words can be funny, cruel, or touching. Drummer Buddy Rich died after surgery in 1987. As he was being prepped for surgery, a nurse asked him, “Is there anything you can’t take?” Rich replied, “Yeah, country music.” Murderer James Rodgers was facing a firing squad when an official asked if he had a last request. He answered, “Bring me a bullet-proof vest.”

The Bible also contains famous last words. Goliath said to David, “Come here, and I will give your flesh to the birds of the air and the beasts of the field.” Sapphira, the wife of Ananias, hauntingly said, “Yes, that is the price.” Samson said, “Let me die with the Philistines.”

2 Timothy does not contain Paul’s last words, but they may be the words of his last epistle. Paul was facing execution, and things were weighing heavily on his mind. We are privileged to read some of his closing remarks to his protegee, Timothy. The final charge of this dying man was, “Preach the Word” (2 Peter 4.2). What a fitting tribute to the life of Paul. What a sobering challenge to followers of Christ today. — Aubrey
