This World is Not My Home

One of the greatest challenges to sincere living is being honest with self. We have to be willing to ask ourselves if we really believe the things we say. You probably know the old gospel song that says "this world is not my home, I'm just a passing thru. My treasures are laid up somewhere beyond the blue". I have probably sung this song 1,000 times in my life. Maybe you have also. Do you ever stop to think "Am I being honest when I say those words?" Can you really say in all honesty that you don't consider this world your home? Can you really say you place your treasure in heaven? I certainly hope you can. Let me conclude this article by quoting John when he wrote: "Do not love the world or the things in the world. If anyone loves the world, the love of the Father is not in him. For all that is in the world — the lust of the flesh, the lust of the eyes, and the pride of life — is not of the Father but is of the world. And the world is passing away, and the lust of it; but he who does the will of God abides forever" (1 John 2:15-17).
