THE LOVE OF GOD (4)

Today for the fourth Sunday morning in a row we will be dealing with the theme of the love of God. So far we have studied Ephesians 2: 4-8, Titus 2: 11-14, Titus 3: 4-7, John 3: 14-17 and 1 John 4: 7-19. Today the morning sermon will deal with Romans 5: 6-11. While this is the fourth and final sermon on this theme (at this time) that does not mean that we are through with the subject of love. Our present plan is to preach on our love for God next Sunday morning and on our love for each other the Sunday morning after that.

Our guest speaker tonight will be Jack Honeycutt, who works with the India Mission. Jack has visited with us before. He is involved in a great work. I have known Jack for several years. He was in some of my classes when I taught at the Nashville School of Preaching. We look forward to having him with us and to hearing about the work in India.

Today, as the calendar indicates, is the first day of Autumn, one of my favorite seasons of the year. As the air becomes crisper and the leaves change color we remember what John Muir said, "The mountains are calling and I must go." (The SHARE Retreat will answer that call October 18-20.) As we travel to enjoy the season, remember to worship the One who gave us the seasons (Psalm 19).

--Dan Cottrell
